The world in which we live and work in is changing faster than ever. Businesses are having to adjust with the challenges of change and disruption. To evolve and thrive businesses understand they need to hire, train and retain talent that matches the diversity of the world. We aim to source the "best of the best" rather than the best of a limited and predictable market. The majority of businesses have acknowledged they can do significantly more at developing diversity and inclusion and Kingston Stanley is working together to facilitate this recruitment change.

As a business, we have put Diversity Recruitment at the forefront of our service offering. Our staff have been specifically trained on Diversity Recruitment and continue to do so, allowing us to completely align with your own diversity and inclusion hiring initiatives and upholding our unconscious bias through the hiring process. As an extension of your Talent, Recruitment or Human Resources teams, we can help develop your culture and hiring values, through a diverse talent pipeline.
